Ali leads KJK's Internet Defamation and Content Removal group, primarily focusing on reputation management through the removal of defamatory or negative internet content.

She is an experienced litigator with an entrepreneurial spirit, utilizing her marketing and communications background to help her clients – from individuals and celebrities to companies and executives – manage and protect their online reputations.

Ali curates sophisticated content removal strategies, including identifying anonymous online attackers, securing court orders, negotiating with web administrators, corresponding with original posters, attaining search engine de-indexing and enforcing removals through intellectual property tools. Her experience in nuanced internet search techniques allows her to assist clients in addressing the aftermath of hacked social media and cloud-based accounts.

Specifically, Ali has experience negotiating and removing harmful and sensitive content – including revenge porn – from websites like Google, Facebook, Reddit, YouTube, Twitter, TikTok, Instagram and numerous other highly trafficked and “shaming” websites that allow users to post negative content about individuals and businesses. Additionally, Ali helps businesses and professionals identify the source of negative online reviews on review platforms like Google My Business, Yelp, RateMDs, Vitals, Healthgrades, RealSelf, Avvo and more.

Ali's Internet Defamation and Content Removal practice frequently overlaps with KJK's eCommerce and Cyber Security & Data Breach practice groups. When working on legal matters involving the internet, Ali can assist clients in devising multi-pronged approaches that achieve multiple goals.

Prior to becoming an attorney, Ali served as the founder and CEO of a successful digital marketing, brand management and advertising firm, where she managed a diverse portfolio of clients. Ali understands the devastating impact negative internet content can have on a business or individual, as well as the vulnerability felt by those impacted by cyber-attacks. Because of her unique mix of business, marketing, and legal experience, she is able to see cases from multiple angles and deliver comprehensive representation which can include the release of public statements.

Ali is an active member of the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA) and is an avid volunteer for Second Star Ohio and A Special Wish Foundation.
