

CHRISTOPHER J. HUBBERT

Over his 25-year career, Christopher has served companies ranging from Internet start-ups to publicly-traded companies with a focus on securities law and corporate governance. He has expertise in capital formation from public and private sources, Securities Exchange Act of 1934 reporting for public companies, tender offers and proxy contests.

Christopher also counsels companies in matters of contract negotiations and mergers and acquisitions, and serves as corporate secretary for both public and private corporations, as well as non-profits. He's known for his careful, cautious approach to client matters, making accuracy a top priority even in the most complex transactions.

Christopher is a native Clevelander, frequent traveler and history buff whose civic involvement has included a position as board chairman for the Cleveland Heights Historical Society.
